

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

In the market driven globalization, ensuring health security is one of the most important task, State has to perform to ensure and justify its governance. It helps make a state a welfare state in the era of globalisation. Every citizen has right to life and liberty which is not possible if health issues are not managed properly. There is a proverb in Hindustani that 'Jaanhai to Jahan Hai.' It means that if you have life, you have the world. It shows how important are the issues of health for an individual, society and state. It is a collective effort everybody including national and international institutions has to make. The thesis entitled "Global Health Governance and Health Security: An assessment of NRHM in U.P with special reference to Raebareli District" is an attempt in that direction.

The rigorous task of completing the work would have not been possible without the active support, guidance and intellectual inputs by my supervisor and Head of Department Prof. Ripu Sudan Singh. I express my deep sense of gratitude to him for all the motivation and moral support in the research. He has ever extended positive attitude and co-operative behaviour. He motivated me to concentrate on the research. I feel greatly indebted to him.

I acknowledge my sincere gratitude to Prof. Sartik Bagh, the ex-head of Department for his continuous support. I express my sincere thanks to Prof. Shashikant Pandey for his cooperative behaviour. Dr. Siddhartha Mukerjee and Dr. Preety Choudhari have always extended all kind of support to me in my entire difficult situation. I must admit that the entire faculty of the Department of Political Science have been source of inspiration without whose continuous and restless support and co-operation this work was totally impossible to be fruitful.

I am also grateful my sincere regard to Prof. Rashbihari Prasad Singh (Vice- Chancellor, Patna University, Patna), Prof. Ram Awtar Singh(A.N College, Patna), Prof. Umakant Yadav (University of Allahabad), Dr. Shiv Shankar Yadav (Assistant Professor) and many others who always motivated me to concentrate on the research. I feel greatly indebted to all of them. I am also thankful to the staff of University Library, Nehru Memorial Museum and Library New Delhi, IDSA Library, Allahabad Library, JNU Library, Delhi University Library, BHU Library and IIPA, New Delhi etc. I am also thankful to Dr. Sunil Gorla, the Librarian of Babasaheb Bhimrao Ambedkar University, Lucknow. He always have been very cooperative.
