

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

So far as the writing of acknowledgment is concerned, it is matter of recognizing the contribution of all who either directly or indirectly supported the work done. The writing of acknowledgement is not only an appraisal statement of researcher but an opportunity to disclose actual happenings remains in memories. No one is perfect and absolute in this world yet many persons are great who become ideal for others. This greatness is understood and recognized through looking into the psychological and physical appearance of such great persons. Researcher has no words that would be adequate to express a sincere gratitude, appreciation and extreme regard to his research supervisor Dr. Preeti Misra, Associate Professor, Department of Human Rights, School for Legal Studies, Babasaheb Bhimrao Ambedkar (Central) University, Vidya Vihar, Raibareli Road, Lucknow firstly for accepting this research problem as workable and a much needed new subject keeping in view the present ongoing debates and discussions then upto carefully guiding this whole research work written in this present Ph.D. thesis. The research supervisor and her keen interest in supervising on one of the most critical subject at present has not only encouraged but also motivated the researcher to go forward primarily for its conceptual understanding as well as field based study under empirical method of research followed by writing of present Ph.D. thesis. Hence, it is a moral obligation and prime duty of researcher to kindly agree upon to put a deep sense of gratitude towards his research supervisor for a well-disciplined guidance, supervision and motivational support.

The researcher is grateful to Prof. S.K. Bhatnagar, Dean, School for Legal Studies, Babasaheb Bhimrao Ambedkar (Central) University, Lucknow for his all-time blessings and support in motivating not only the researcher but also everyone approaches to him. He always emphasises on ‘Have Faith and Patience All the Time’ and ‘Just Concentrate on Your Duty’ that actually become a key for all.

It is again the question of agreeing upon to put my humble gratitude towards Prof. Priti Saxena, Head, Department of Human Rights, School for Legal Studies, Babasaheb Bhimrao Ambedkar (Central) University, Lucknow for her invaluable contribution in firstly accepting the present title of this Ph.D. thesis as new and for carrying forward the research work till the writing of this Ph.D. thesis. ‘Never Understand Weak in yourself’; ‘Keep Working Hard’ is her message to all.

Dr. Shashi Kumar, Associate Professor, Department of Human Rights, School for Legal Studies, Babasaheb Bhimrao Ambedkar (Central) University, Lucknow has always been encouraging to the researcher with time to time discussion on the research subject. The researcher humbly puts his gratitude to Dr. Shashi Kumar for his valuable remarks regarding this research work done.

Dr. Rashida Ather, Assistant Professor, Department of Human Rights, School for Legal Studies, Babasaheb Bhimrao Ambedkar (Central) University, Lucknow is very kind and supportive during the exchange of thoughts regarding this research work done. She has always enlightened the way because of her academic interest. The researcher is highly thankful to Dr. Rashida Ather.

The contribution of my landlord, where I have been living since very starting, is highly of great support and motivational. I got a good atmosphere here and succeed to be able to do this research work and finally writing this Ph.D. thesis. I am deeply thankful to all the family members of my landlord.

During the research work, many NGOs, working groups, organizations, sexual minority persons, activists and other official staff members were very kind and helpful for the researcher, so it is their co-operation and support that this field research work could become possible. I am humbly thankful to all for their all types of support and help.

It would be a mistake if the staff members of different libraries in India, faculties members of different departments, staff of Department of Human Rights, School for Legal Studies, Babasaheb Bhimrao Ambedkar (Central) University, Lucknow, all my friends who have now gone/leaved away from here and those who are still here with me is not thanked for their beloved co-operation and support. I am very much thankful to all my elder and younger friends and past and present students of the School for Legal Studies.

Finally, I am thankful to my parent and family members. I also thank all the inspirational discussions, comments, co-operations and supports during this research work and writing of Ph.D. thesis. This is truly admirable and accepted as a great learning experience.

Date:

Place: Lucknow

Mukesh Bharti