

Acknowledgements

This is perhaps the hardest chapter that I have to write. There are always moments when you look back in time, recall and reminisce things about past. Writing this acknowledgment is one of those very few moments, when I fondly look back and feel gratitude towards this institution and the people whose unconditional help was mandatory for me to complete my thesis.

I am thankful to our Vice-chancellor Prof. R. C. Sobti, Babasaheb Bhimrao Ambedkar University (A Central University), Lucknow, India for his encouraging wisdom words during research tenure.

I would surely be short of words while expressing my sincere regards to my worthy guide, Prof Shubhini A Saraf, Department of Pharmaceutical Sciences, Babasaheb Bhimrao Ambedkar University (A Central University), Lucknow, India. Her uncompromising quest for excellence, integral view on research and her mission for providing only high-quality work and not less have made a deep impression on me. I was fortunate to receive her dexterous guidance right from the beginning to end, lavish help, conscientious efforts, continuous encouragement, freehearted attention, inspiration, constructive criticism, valued suggestions, tireless efforts without which it would not have been possible for me to execute this project successfully. I will never forget the spirit of sincerity, devotion, dedication, moral certitude and ethics, which she has inculcated within me during this period. I learned to believe in my future, my work, and myself. She inculcated the positive values in me to make me a better human being and I have learnt from her. Thank you Ma'am for all that I have got from you.

I am incredibly grateful to my Departmental Research Committee (DRC) members of Department of Pharmaceutical Sciences, B.B.A.U, Lucknow, especially Prof Shubhini A. Saraf, Dr. R. Venkatesh Kumar, Dr. N.K.S. More, Dr. V. Elangovan, Dr. Gaurav Kaithwas, and Dr. Sudipta Saha for their invaluable suggestions and support throughout my sojourn in the department during my research work.

I accord my thanks to the Dr. V. Elangovan Dr. Sangeeta Saxena, and Mr. Mukesh, BBAU, Lucknow for providing me University Science Instrumentation Centre (USIC) facilities to carry out my project.

I am very thankful to Dr Shailendra Saraf
